ON BOARD, EXPERIENCE THE FLAVORS OF FEATURED WINERIES

Le Domaine d'Henri

The Laroche family has been producing wine for nearly 200 years, beginning from humble roots when Jean Victor Laroche bought his first piece of land in Maligny, France in 1850. Their philosophy to winemaking involves minimal intervention, including using natural yeast from the vines to realize alcoholic fermentation, and organic production in oak barrels and stainless steel tanks. Today, they produce a variety of cuvées from vineyards across their land to notable acclaim.

Planeta

For five centuries and through seventeen generations, the Planeta family has been involved with the course of agricultural evolution in Sicily, with an approach toward innovation and sustainability. They planted their first vineyards for Chardonnay at Ulmo, a few meters from Lake Arancio and from the 16th century farmhouse owned by the family for seventeen generations. Today, they produce wines from slopes throughout Sicily, including Mt. Etna, to award-winning acclaim, most notably winning the coveted Cantina dell'Anno (Italian Winery of the Year) award in 1999.
