DIEVOLE

Dievole is set in tranquil surroundings, nestled in the beautiful Tuscan hills, long known as a little piece of heaven on earth. Here the dialogue between Mankind and Nature has never been interrupted, and its very name explains why. The root of the word Dievole comes from "Dio vuole" or "God willing." The name Dievole officially appeared for the first time in a contract in which Rodolfo and Vinizio paid two capons, three loaves of bread, and 6 silver Lucca denari for a promise of the divine vineyard. It is in that spirit that Dievole produces some of the region's most highly acclaimed wines.

BOTTEGA

Bottega SpA is a family company, boasting a history of over four centuries in vineyard cultivation, producing wines, grappa, spirits, and liqueurs. Their commitment to sustainability is paramount: they recycle siliconized paper, bottles made from at least 50% recycled glass, follow organic farming criteria in their vineyards, and incorporate recycled ocean plastics. Crafted with artisan care, their products are made with unique ingredients and reflect their unwavering dedication to quality and sustainability.
